Burke Early Head Start transitioned many children to the classroom this week. The staff of Burke EHS welcomes each and everyone as they begin a new path on this journey.

The Burke EHS classrooms serve both infants and toddlers in a family style setting. Children in a mixed age setting learn to care for one another and be active members of a community.

Create a Reader Friendly Home

Tips to support reading at home:

- Give your child a special, cozy space and quiet time every day to read or write.
- Point out letters in words around you. Food boxes, sales papers, street signs and store logos are all examples of print that can be found around you.
- Snuggle up with a story often, get comfortable and enjoy the pictures as you read or look at books.
- Read together. Read to your child before bed or while waiting for doctor visits or other appointments.

Learning is a life-long process– not just for children but for all of us!

Early Head Start parents are working hard to achieve their goals. Marta Carrillo recently began ESL classes at Western Piedmont Community College. If you are interested in continuing your education, please talk to your home visitor or classroom teacher. They can help you find information about programs and schools where you can reach the next level in your educational journey.

Welcome Catalina!

Catalina Rosales is a familiar face at EHS. She has served as an interpreter for three years. Catalina joined the team full time as a Bilingual In-Home Educator in August.

Catalina attends Western Piedmont Community College and lives in the Hickory area with her husband and fourteen year old son.
